which, when a person is in a state of property, is the only way in which the person can be held responsible for the property. It is the only way in which the person can be held responsible for the property. It is the only way in which the person can be held responsible for the property.

As a result of the above, the authors have concluded that the use of the proposed method for the analysis of the stability of the system is quite effective. The results of the analysis are in good agreement with the results of the analysis of the stability of the system by the method of the characteristic equation.

or person, group, and nation, has a responsibility to identify, control, and, where necessary, prevent. Collaborative efforts are needed to ensure a rapid, realistic, and effective response to the threat of weapons of mass destruction. As the world's population grows, the need for international cooperation to prevent the development, production, and use of weapons of mass destruction becomes ever more acute.

Here are 2 Methodist (white and colored), Baptist (white and colored), a Catholic and a Presbyterian church, with a public school and 2 academies. The Bardstown Institute and St. Joseph's College, the buildings of which, with the church, are the grand old buildings made in the town. The Nelson County Record, published here, is known as one of the best papers in this portion of the state. A good hotel, the "Palmyra House," furnishes good accommodations for the traveling public. Land of different quantities can be purchased at $5 to $60 per acre. Stage communication with Bloomfield and

— AND —

FAMOUS SUMMER, HEALTH AND GAME RESORTS AND LAKES

OF—

NORTHERN MICHIGAN.

THE WATERS of the Grand Fisheries north of Lake Huron and North Woods are unsurpassed for purity and the abundance and variety of the fishery.

BROOK TROUT is one of the strains, and the others AMERICAN GRAYLING, and WHITE BASS.

THE TROUT SEASON begins May 1st, and ends September 1st. THE GRAYLING SEASON begins June 1st, and ends November 1st.

BLACK BASS, PIKE, PICKEREL and MUSKAIGNE are also in large quantities in many lakes and rivers of this territory. Turkeys are also in plenty sent free of charge with the waterfowl season, and all the deer and game are abundant at nearly all points.

TAKE YOUR FAMILY WITH YOU. The scenery of the North Woods and Lakes is very beautiful. The air is pure, dry and healthy.

THE CLIMATE is very healthy, and free from those summer fevers, HAY FEVER and ASTHMATIC AFFECTIONS.

THE HOTEL ACCOMMODATIONS are excellent, and will be very comfortably used in time for the season of fishing and game.

During the season ROUND-TRIP EXCURSION TICKETS WILL BE SOLD AT LOW RATES, and also on the Grand Lakes and the Lakes and Rivers.

Figure 1 is a vertical sequence of 15 line drawings illustrating the stages of chick development from fertilization to hatching. The drawings are arranged in two columns. The left column contains drawings 1 through 10, and the right column contains drawings 11 through 15. Each drawing is labeled with a number and a corresponding letter (A through O) to its right. The sequence shows the progression from a single cell to a fully formed chick ready to hatch from the egg.

The figure consists of nine small diagrams arranged vertically, illustrating the stages of early embryonic development:

- Diagram 1: Shows a single cell with a nucleus.
- Diagram 2: Shows two cells, one slightly larger than the other.
- Diagram 3: Shows four cells in a square arrangement.
- Diagram 4: Shows eight cells in a cube-like arrangement.
- Diagram 5: Shows a morula, where cells are tightly packed in a spherical cluster.
- Diagram 6: Shows a blastocyst, which has a fluid-filled cavity (blastocoel) surrounded by a layer of cells.
- Diagram 7: Shows a blastocyst with a more defined inner cell mass and outer cell layer.
- Diagram 8: Shows a blastocyst with a prominent inner cell mass.
- Diagram 9: Shows a blastocyst with a very distinct inner cell mass, ready for implantation.

BOWLING GREEN. Situated at the confluence of Green and Barren rivers, at the head of navigation, in Warren county, of which it is the seat. The Green and Barren River Transportation Company make regular daily trips between this city and Evansville, stopping at all intermediate points. This city, of 6,000 inhabitants, is beautifully situated, and possesses advantages enjoyed by but few other cities in the State. It has a reservoir 235 ft. above the city, which renders the use of fire-engines unnecessary. Its public parks are very handsome and attractive. An excellent telephone system connects it with Mining City, 60 miles distant. It has several manufacturing, prominent among which are two stove-mills, flouring-mill, woolen-mill, two carriage factories, and a distillery. Several fine churches, edines and good public schools are here, and the court-house, which is admitted to be one of the most magnificent structures in the State, and cost the county $150,000. The bonded indebtedness of the city is $130,000, with an assessed valuation of real and personal property of $2,250,000. In addition to its public school system, the city has educational advantages afforded by two excellent seminaries—the Ogden College and the Bowling Green Female College. Four banks are here, and two newspapers—the Bowling Green Democrat and Gazette—both of which are well-known and properly appreciated as first-class journals, than which no better can be found for advertising purposes. Gas and water-works are here. Besides the navigation facilities afforded by the rivers, the city also has the advantages which its position as an important station on the Memphis Division of the L. & N. R. R. gives it, and over which it ships large quantities of live stock, cereals and tobacco. Excellent hotel accommodations are provided by good hotels, the principal of which are the Morehead and the Ritter House. Both of which are first-class in every respect, are supplied with all modern conveniences, and receive the well-deserved patronage of the traveling public. One of the largest vineyards in the State is located here, which produces some 4,000 gallons of a very superior quality of wine yearly. Express Adams. Telegraph Western Union. Mail daily. W. E. Hobson, postmaster.

CARROLLTON. Located on the south bank of the Ohio river, at its confluence with the Kentucky, 62 miles northeast of Louisville. This town is the county-seat of Carroll county, is incorporated, and has a population of 1,600. The place was originally settled in 1794, when it was known as Port William, which was changed, in 1837, to its present name. Its shipping point, by rail, is English, 5 miles south-east on the L. C. & L. Ry. Carrollton is an enterprising and prosperous city, and contains 7 church edifices, representing the Baptist, Presbyterian, Methodist, Methodist Episcopal, Christian, and Catholic sects, a seminary, and Catholic high-school, a good weekly newspaper, a woolen-mill, and several other mills, which all use steam power, and a bank. The assessed value on real and personal property in the city, is $500,000, and the town has no bonded indebtedness. The exports of the place comprise hay, corn, tobacco, and live stock. The nature of the land in the vicinity is rolling prairie and unimproved timber—the latter valued at an average price of $25, while cleared farms are worth from $40 to $100 per acre. The city is lighted with gas, and altogether presents an elegant appearance. Stage communi-

COVINGTON. This city, the second in the State, is located in Kenton county, on the Ohio river, at its confluence with the Licking, directly opposite Cincinnati, with which it is connected by the largest single span wire suspension bridge in the world. It is also connected with Newport, on the opposite bank of the Licking river, by a wire bridge. The county-seat is Independence, 19 miles south, but the business is virtually carried on here, this place being the location of the court-house and county jail. It is the northern terminus of the K. C. R. R., and, among other points of interest, contains 24 church edifices, among which are 5 Catholic, 1 Episcopal, for the various educational institutions for which it is famous. Among these we may mention the Kentucky State Institute for Deaf and Dumb, erected at a cost of $70,000, and which has 180 pupils; the Center College, for young men, in connection with the Church, No. 1, and under the Presbyterian Synod of Kentucky, with an endowment fund of $250,000; the building cost $70,000; the library is a standard one, of 8,000 volumes; this college has 170 students; and the Danville Theological Seminary, under the auspices of the Presbyterian church. In addition to the above-mentioned institutions, there are 8 churches, 3 banks, a steam flouring-mill, and 2 distilleries. There is the Central and Clemens House, and 2 weekly newspapers, one of which, the Tribune, is one of the liveliest and strongest Republican newspapers in the South. It is published at $2 per year, and is the best Southern newspaper for advertisers. The Singer Manufacturing Company's Sewing-Machine parlor, on Third street, next door to post-office, is handsomely furnished, and has 20 wagons on the road which is a good indication that they are doing a live business. GEORGETOWN. This town, according to the census of 1880 has a population of 2,051, and is the county-seat of Scott, in the eastern part of the county, on the C. S. Ry., 12 miles north of Lexington, 18 north-east of Frankfort, 67 south of Cincinnati, and 89 east of Louisville. The place abounds in costly private residences and business places; its educational facilities are extensive. Georgetown College, founded in 1820, is located here. In addition to the above, there are located here, Warren's Female Seminary, Georgetown Seminary, Miss. Ball's free school and several private ones. There are six churches, as follows: Methodist, Baptist, Presbyterian, Christian, Episcopal, and Catholic. There are also 2 banks, with an aggregate capital of $450,000—the Farmers' Bank of Kentucky is one of the prominent banks in the State, and is a branch of several banks, which, in the aggregate, represent over $1,000,000—2 steam flouring mills, a Masada and public hall, two weekly newspapers, the Georgetown Times and Every Saturday, and 3 hotels, the most worthy of note being the Georgetown Hotel. The streets of the town are beautifully landscaped and lighted with gas, and it receives an ample supply of water from the famous "Big Spring," which flows from a high bluff of limestone rock. Here are 2 banks, 2 flour-mills, 11 churches, a weekly newspaper, the Mercer Enterprise, a woolen-mill, and several hotels, among them the Commercial House, the leading one in the place, and one of the finest in this section of the country. A Shaker settlement has been located within five miles of here, for several years past, and is in a prosperous condition.

Harrodsburg is the site of Daughters' College, the most celebrated institution of learning in the Bluegrass district of Kentucky, established more than a quarter of a century ago, for the better and higher education of women. Its graduates are annually sought after to fill important positions in other schools of the West, so that it is, practically, one of the first Normal colleges of the country.

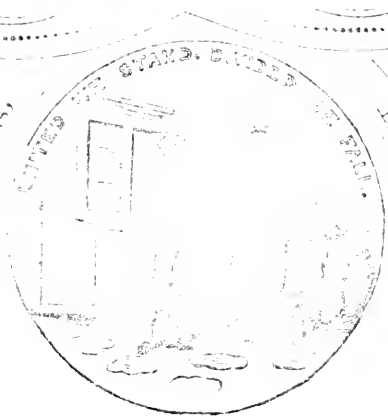

It is surrounded by beautiful and extensive grounds, and is supplied with a fine library, a good museum and cabinet, and all necessary chemical and physical apparatus. Its appointments are complete; four matrons and a superintendent have charge of the home, and eight teachers devote themselves to the school. Its musical methods are normal and conservatory. Its graduates are enrolled from every section of the Union, North, South, East and West. The institution is unsectarian. Stages to Frankfort and Mitchellburg. Population 2,500. Adams Express. HARTFORD. The county-seat of Ohio county, is located on Rough creek, 110 miles south-west of Louisville, and 14 miles from Beaver Dam, its shipping port on the P. & E. R. R. It has 2 daily stages to Beaver Dam, and a tri-weekly line of stages to Owensboro, the nearest shipping point, on the Ohio river. It has communication with Beaver Dam, McHenry, and Rockport by telephone, and a company is being formed to put up a line to Owensboro. Hartford was settled in 1785, the first county court was held in 1800, at which time it was selected as the county-seat. Incorporated 1808. There are Baptist, Methodist, and Cumberland Presbyterian church organizations, and also Baptist and Methodist colored churches. A very fine college building has been recently erected, employing 8 teachers, with 225 scholars, and the citizens enjoy the benefits of superior educational advantages—tuition in the entire collegiate course being free to all the citizens of the town. There is a first-class steam and water flour-mill, with fine water-power. There are 3 blacksmith, plow, and wagon shops. The building and opening of Hartford College has given the town quite an impetus; the population has increased, and quite a number of new buildings were erected during the year 1880, and already (May, 1881), building has commenced. The bonded debt of the town is $4,500, issued in aid of Hartford College, and is being rapidly extinguished. The assessed value of property is $300,000. The court-house and jail are new, handsome and commodious buildings. A good hotel is also here. The exports are tobacco, live stock, lumber, and coal, the

HARTFORD, KY.

BARRETT & BRO., Publishers.

Democratic—Circulation 2000—Established 1875—Size 26x40—4 pages, 8 columns to page.

One of the adjoining counties has no paper. An excellent advertising medium. Terms reasonable. As to circulation, influence and reliability, do not take the word of the publishers, but read the certificates of the following uninterested parties of the town and county in which it is published.

This is to certify, that as first Master of Hartford, I have very good opportunities of ascertaining the circulation of the Herald, published here, as nearly all the papers issued to subscribers, in or out of the county, pass through this office.

My predecessor, Judge J. J. Newton, in March, 1879, certified that the circulation of the Herald was then not less than 1800. I was a first Master July, 1879, and know beyond doubt that the circulation has increased since then, exactly how much I do not say, but think about 200.

This is a large county in area and population, having considerable mining interests. Fifteen thriving little villages and towns and sixteen post offices.

I regard the Herald as a good advertising medium, it having the reputation of being a reliable, progressive newspaper.

I am well acquainted with the Editors and Publishers of the Herald, Hartford, Ky., and am a regular reader of their paper. I regard it a reliable, new paper, one having the confidence of the public, and having a very large circulation for a local paper. Free from any suggestions from the publishers, I would estimate the circulation to be about 2000 copies.

HENDERSON. Situated on the left bank of the Ohio river, 10 miles south of Evansville, Ind., and midway between Louisville and Cairo, Ill., is this city, the seat of Henderson county. It is the northern terminus of the St. L. & S. E. div. of L. & N. R. R., 145 miles from Nashville and 171 from St. Louis, and is the central point in navigation of a number of river routes, among them the Ohio, Mississippi, Wabash, Cumberland and Tennessee. It is also a point of landing for regular lines of steamers, connecting Cincinnati and Louisville with Memphis and New Orleans, as well as for smaller boats which are constantly arriving and departing. Corn is grown in large quantities around Henderson, but its principal article of export is tobacco. There are 16 large steameries in operation, which shipped for the year 1880, 7,300 hhds. tobacco (over 16,000,000 pounds), the major part of which found a market in Europe. Coal is also an important article of export and is extensively mined. An abundance of hard wood timber is to be found in the neighborhood, which offers excellent inducements, in point of cheapness, to manufacturers who use such material. The city has an assessed valuation of $2,500,000, and a bonded debt of $500,000, and is lighted with gas, and employs a regular police force. Many of its private residences are costly and elegant, and its inhabitants are industrious and enterprising. It has an excellent system of water-works erected at a cost of $400,000. Its public school building cost $55,000, and is complete in all its appointments. It also has two excellent newspapers, the Henderson Reporter, weekly and tri-weekly, and the Henderson News; 10 churches, 2 banks, 4 good hotels, a foundry and machine shop, 3 distilleries, a brewery, a saw-mill, a planing-mill, a public hall, an extensive spoke-factory, 2 flour-mills, 2 brick-kilns, an extensive drain tile works, and several fine business blocks. Western Union Telegraph, Southern Express. Daily mail. Population 6,573. Harvey Park, postmaster.

HICKMAN. On the Mississippi river, 40 miles below Cairo, Ill., 200 above Memphis. Is the county-seat of Fulton, and is the north-western terminus of the N. C. & St. L. R'y. Trains connect with steamers for Cairo, St. Louis, and points on the river. This town is now in a more prosperous condition than it ever was. A good opening is presented here for a bank.
Settled in 1833, it was incorporated as a village in 1857, and as a city in 1858. It has a weekly newspaper, 5 churches, and a public school. The Hickman Lumber Manufacturing Company employ 75 men and manufacture lumber and furniture to a considerable extent. The Hickman Oil Company have recently completed the works at a cost of $100,000. The wagon-works of the celebrated Hickman Wagon Company will, probably, turn out some 2,000 this year. These last works give employment to nearly 100 men. It also has a plow and wagon factory, 2 sawing-mills, 3 cotton gins, and 2 good mills, the chief of which is the Planters' House, recently repaired. Exports cotton, tobacco, grain and country produce. Western Union

HOPKINSVILLE. The county seat of Christian, the fourth county in wealth and population in the State, was located and laid off in 1799, and was originally called Elizabethtown. It is prettily located on Little River, and upon the dividing line between the prairie lands of South-Christian and the hilly region in the northern part of the county. The lands embraced within the corporate limits are sufficiently rolling to afford good drainage, and the city is one of the healthiest in the Mississippi Valley. The city is situated on the L. & N. R. R., 71 miles from Nashville, 87 from Evansville, and 175 from Louisville. In 1870 the place had a population of about 3,000 souls, since which time it has nearly doubled. No city in the State has made more rapid progress during the past few years. Her tobacco market, which is not yet ten years old, is the third in importance in the State. Her location makes her the natural market of the largest and most productive tobacco growing region in the world. Her churches, 9 in number, are large, well-constructed, handsome buildings, and a fine new public school building has just been completed. The court-house, which cost $90,000, is one of the largest in the State, and is an ornament to the city. Among her more important business establishments are: 6 large tobacco warehouses, 10 extensive flour and grist-mills, 2 planing-mills, 3 banks, with an aggregate capital of $900,000, 2 hotels, one foundry, 3 carriage factories, one of which is owned by Messrs. McCamey, Bonte & Co., and is the largest in Western Kentucky; a plow factory, five tobacco re-tolling houses, and two newspapers. The Kentucky New Era, Danville, is one of the most influential in the State. The South Kentuckian is also Democratic in politics, and is a prosperous, well-conducted sheet. The Republican is a public sheet, what its name implies, and although recently established, bids fair to become an influential public organ. Its educational institutions are Bethel Female College, J. M. Rust, A. M., President, employing 10 teachers. This college is in a flourishing condition and is celebrated as one of the finest institutions in the State. The South Kentucky Female College, and the Western Kentucky Lunatic Asylum are located here. The steam flouring-mill and grain elevator of Messrs. Rubbith, Brownell & Co., and the planing and saw-mill, and sash, door and blind manufactory of Messrs. Brownell & Co. are particular institutions of this city. Western Union Telegraph. Southern Express. Daily mail. Susan H. Burbridge, postmaster.

THE LOUISVILLE VOLKSBLATT.

PUBLISHED DAILY, WEEKLY AND SEMI-WEEKLY.

AND LITERARY SUNDAY PAPER

❖ OMNIBUS ❖

BY W. KRIPPENSTAPEL.

37 Third Street, between Market and Jefferson.

As an advertising medium we have obtained a larger circulation and offer greater advantages than any other German paper in the South-west, while our advertising and subscription rates are the lowest. The Volksblatt is the authorized Public Printer for the City of Louisville.

For advertising in any form, or for any other business, apply to the Louisville Volksblatt at No. 37 Third Street, between Market and Jefferson.

LEBANON. An enterprising town of—late census report—2,050 inhabitants. It is the county-seat of Marion county, and is a station on the Knoxville branch of the L. & N. R. R., 67 miles from Louisville. The surroundings of Lebanon are rich agricultural and heavily-timbered lands. It contains 8 churches, 3 colleges, steam flour-mill, furniture factory, 2 weekly newspapers, 2 banks, capital $250,000, and 3 hotels. The Norris House, opened in 1880, is one of the finest hotels in Central Kentucky, and is replete with all modern improvements, and is justly popular. The Gothic House, at the depot, is under the same good management as heretofore. A very extensive collection and law business is done here by Samuel B. Berry, Esq., who is well known. The dental offices of P. T. Dehman are located here. Mr. Dehman is a graduate of the Pennsylvania College of Dental Surgery. Daily stages to Springfield, fare 50 cents. Adams Express. Daily mail. Adolph B. Hilpp, postmaster.

LEXINGTON. The county-seat of Fayette is located on the lower fork of the Elkhorn river. Its general appearance is very attractive; its streets are broad, paved, and lighted with gas, and are flanked on either side with handsome, substantial business blocks and private residences. It is especially celebrated for its educational institutions, among which are the Kentucky University, the State College of Kentucky, Syer's Female Institute, Christ Church Seminary, and Hamilton Female College. This last-named institution is the largest and best-arranged building in the State, for the purpose for which it was erected. It is elegantly built, and is perfectly-ventilated as possible. It has all the modern improvements, being heated by steam, lighted with gas, and furnished with excellent suites of bathrooms. It is favorably situated in the northern limit of the city, and is free from much of the bad air that would be encountered if located in the business portion of the city. The institution is the property of a joint-stock company, and, since its purchase in 1877 by the company, has been presided over by J. E. Patterson, who has been at the head of a female boarding-school for a greater number of consecutive years than any other man in the State. Under his management the college has grown to be the largest female boarding-school in Kentucky. The cemetery of Lexington, located at the western end of the city, is one of the most beautiful in the United States. The remains of many of the most illustrious men of the State are interred here. In this cemetery is a monument erected to the memory of Henry Clay. It is 112 feet high, and surmounted by a life-size statue of the eminent statesman. The city has 7 churches of the various denominations, 261 places of public worship, 7 newspapers, viz.: Transcript, daily, and weekly; Banner, daily; Gazette, weekly; Apostolic, daily; Weekly; Live Oak, weekly; Herald, daily; and the Standard Observer and Book Journal, weekly. The population, according to the census of 1880, is 114,000, and, according to the census of 1880, it has a population of 110,000. Its railroads, including its excellent three roads, viz.: the K. C., L., J. & L. and C. S. R. R.'s, enter here, and afford convenient transportation to all parts of the United States. Lexington is the site of the Transylvania Printing and Publishing Company, which was established in 1874, and commenced with a large and complete assortment of all material used in first-class printing and publishing houses. At the close of 1880 the company, by vote of stockholders, concluded to discontinue business, and sold the entire outfit to Dr. W. O. Sweney, Wm. H. Cassell, T. Logan Hooper and Wm. Plunkett, who now constitute the company, the two latter taking an active part in the business. The company will, by the close attention given, and the promptness with which they dispense business, insure certain success. They are prepared to do all classes of fine printing, such as circulars, ball-balls, wedding cards, letter and note-heads, as well as book-binding in all its departments. The trade of Lexington is extensive and various, and several manufacturing enterprises are carried on. Three good hotels are located here, the Phoenix, the Ashland House, and the Southern Hotel. Stage communication with Lawrenceburg, by way of Versailles, daily, and to Richmond, twice a day. Expresses Adams, Telegraph Western Union, Mail daily. H. K. Milward, postmaster.

LOUISVILLE. The city of Louisville is the largest and most important city in Kentucky, and the second, in size, on the Ohio river. It is slightly situated in Jefferson county, about equidistant between the eastern and western boundaries of the State. By rail, it is 110 miles from Cincinnati, 110 from Indianapolis, 423 from Pittsburg, 704 from Washington, 377 from Detroit, 537 from Buffalo, 956 from New York, 1,094 from Boston, 323 from St. Louis, and 350 from Chicago. The first settlement on the present site of the city was made as early as 1770, but no material improvements were made until 1780, which year, really, chronicled the birth of the city. Possessed of superior advantages, by its admirable location, it was but a short time before Louisville became what it now is the metropolis of the south-western States. Five trunk-lines, centering here, give it shipping facilities of no common order, and this, in connection with the river traffic, make it the shipping and receiving depot for the surrounding States. It is the southern terminus of the Louisville, Cincinnati & Lexington Railway, which, running east and north, penetrates one of our most agricultural regions of the State. It is the northern terminus of the Louisville & Nashville Railroad, which, with its branches, traverses the larger portion of 2,460 miles. This road has lately consolidated with itself all the smaller lines through the western and southern portion of Kentucky, and the north-western part of Tennessee, and connects Louisville with the whole system of Southern railroads. It is, also, the southern terminus of the Louisville, New Albany & Chicago Railroad, the Jeffersonville, Madison & Indianapolis, and the Ohio & Mississippi Railways. The former, a new and well-equipped road, lately completed to Chicago, and the two latter to Indianapolis and St. Louis, respectively. All these roads, contracting with the trunk-lines East and West, afford Louisville excellent facilities of freight and passage, and, by virtue of the competition thus formed, ensure low rates. There is, also, a small local line—Louisville, Harrods Creek & Westport Railroad—of 11 miles in length—between this city and Prospect. The Maritime interests comprise 7 regular packet-lines out of Louisville, which connect with others, on more than 15,000 miles of navigable rivers. These lines are, Louisville & Cincinnati V. S. Mail-line to Cincinnati; Louisville & Henderson Packet-line to the Cincinnati, Memphis & Ohio River Packet-line between Cincinnati and Memphis; Cincinnati, Louisville & New Orleans Packet-line between New Orleans and Cincinnati; and the Pittsburg, Huntington, Cincinnati & St. L. Packet-line to Pittsburg and St. Louis; the Madison and the Cincinnati and Tennessee River Packet-lines.

The trade in iron and whisky interests of Louisville are the most extensive, although it extends both to horses, negroes, patronage, wagons and carriages, and lumber, with a host of smaller enterprises, all sustained in connection with the business interests of the city, should be mentioned as one of the most profitable mercantile firms and companies of the former, Messrs. Barlow & Cushman and Morris & Bayly are the chief both firms operating an enormous business, and representing most of the best companies in the United States and Europe. The Louisville Underwriters (Fire and Marine) and the Southern Mutual Life, are the principal institutions. The former, incorporated in 1806, has always maintained a high reputation of solvency, and, although it has been stricken recently in its business, it has met with earnest efforts to a healthy one. But, in full sympathy with Southern sentiments, the Southern Mutual has an advantage over outside companies in competing for business in that section.

The entirely new branches of commerce have lately taken a foothold in Louisville, and will, without doubt, become large factors in the commerce of the future. The Peter Arntsen Co. Company, of New York, has lately inaugurated a branch establishment here for the manufacture of ice, and is now doing a flourishing business. The Southern Dairy Company are engaged in the comparatively new industry of manufacturing oleomargarine with great success.

One of the principal features of the city is the bridge which spans the Ohio river at this point. It is over 5,000 feet in length, and has a height of 90 feet above low-water mark, and was completed in 1874. It is a solid and substantial structure, and a source of pride to the citizens. As this bridge passes through the press, another bridge, to connect the city with Jeffersonville, is under consideration, and will probably be opened in the near future. Louisville has 2 free parks (Central and Flora), 3 libraries, the Polytechnic Society of Louisville, the Louisville Law Library, and Louisville Library Association. The first mentioned is the principal, and contains 37,000 volumes in addition to music, zincs, reviews, etc., is located in Public Library Building, and is under careful management. The banking institutions of Louisville are 20 in number, and represent a total paid-up capital of $8,222,174. In addition to these, there are 5 private banks. The clearing-house report for 1880 shows a total of $2,011,746, and for the first six months of the present year, $188,569,512. The statement, compared with that of previous years, shows a steady and encouraging increase. The press is represented by

It is to be regretted that space will not allow a more extended review of the business and manufacturing interests of Louisville. All classes of business show a steady and healthy increase, especially during the past two years, and with the increased enterprise and activity, which is apparent with all classes, the future of Louisville, as a great commercial center is assured. The postal office report for 1880, shows that the 12 carriers delivered 7,426,172 pieces of mail matter, and collected $3,000,408. The total number of pieces mailed was 22,427,784; 17,718 money orders, representing $244,912.50 were issued, and $63,332, or $122,736,797.2, were paid, and the sales on stamps amounted to $185,117.92. The report of the health commissioner is eminently favorable, and shows a much lower rate of mortality than that of any other city of its size in the Union. During the past decade the population of this city has increased at a rate of 20 per cent., and, according to the 1880 United States census, the city has 123,945 inhabitants within the limits. The city presents a most beautiful and attractive appearance—street cars run on all the principal streets, it is well lighted by gas, its water-works system is perfect. The fire and police departments are efficient in their management and appointment, and a better city government could not be obtained. The total bonded indebtedness amounts to $10,220,000, the annual interest amounting to $592,000, and the valuation of taxable property to $66,209,440. The American District Telegraph Company and Telephone Exchange, Atlantic & Pacific, Baltimore & Ohio, American Union and Western Union Telegraph Companies, the Adams, the American, the Louisville & Nashville Railroad, Louisville, Cincinnati & Lexington Railway, the L. N. A. & C. and the O. & M. express companies all have offices here. A daily stage runs to Bloomfield and Taylorsville, fare $1.50 each. Mail daily. Virginia C. Thompson, postmaster.

DR. JOHN BULL'S SMITH'S TONIC SYRUP

FEVER AND AGUE

OR

CHILLS AND FEVER.

The proprietor of this celebrated medicine justly claims for it a superiority over all remedies ever offered to the public for the SAFE, CERTAIN, SPEEDY and PERMANENT cure of Ague and Fever, or Chills and Fever, whether of short or long standing. He refers to the entire Southern and Western country to bear him testimony to the truth of the assertion that in no case whatever will it fail to cure if the directions are strictly followed and carried out. In a great many cases a single dose has been sufficient for a cure, and whole families have been cured by a single bottle, with a perfect restoration of the general health. It is, however, prudent, and in every case more certain to cure if its use is continued in smaller doses for a week or two after the disease has been checked, more especially in difficult and long-standing cases. Usually this medicine will not require any aid to keep the bowels in good order. Should the patient, however, require a cathartic medicine after having taken three or four doses of the Tonic, single dose of BULL'S VEGETABLE FAMILY PILLS will be sufficient.

The genuine SMITH'S TONIC SYRUP must have Dr. JOHN BULL'S private stamp on each bottle. Dr. JOHN BULL only has the right to manufacture and sell the original JOHN J. SMITH'S TONIC SYRUP of Louisville, Ky. Examine well the label on each bottle. If my private stamp is not on each bottle, do not purchase or you will be deceived.

DR. JOHN BULL,

MANUFACTURER AND VENDOR OF

SMITH'S TONIC SYRUP, BULL'S SARSAPARILLA, BULL'S WORM DESTROYER.

THE FARMER'S MAGAZINE

Of Live Stock, Agricultural, Horticultural and General Information.

Published at 79 Fifth Street, Louisville, Ky.

JOHN DUNCAN, Editor and Owner.

Makes a specialty of the discussion of all topics bearing on the fine live-stock interests of Kentucky and neighboring states; tells how to breed and treat such stock everywhere; tells also how to improve common stock.

THE FARMER'S MAGAZINE is a patronized Monthly Journal of forty pages—in all senses suitable for circulation in the refined homes of country gentlemen. A very valuable advertising medium for all who want to make their business known in, and secure trade from, such homes.

Yearly subscription price, $1.40. In clubs of five or more, $1.00 for each yearly subscription. In the case of large clubs, the sender must deduct the cost of Postage on Order from the amount.

THE FARMER'S MAGAZINE has liberal clubbing arrangements with all the leading publications of the United States. Enquiries promptly answered. Address JOHN DUNCAN, as above.

LOUISVILLE OPEN FIRE PLACE M'FG CO.

The new cooling and iron back is adapted to any fire place. Its new called heating and radiating qualities, and its saving in fuel, render it the most economical and best in use. The same principle is introduced in our open fire stoves, which combine comfort, elegance, economy, good ventilation and even temperature. An up-stair or adjoining room heated by register from the hot air chamber behind the grate. Further information cheerfully given on the satisfaction of every agent.

WM. CHILDERS and A. J. PARSONS, Proprietors.

Arrangements made with a limited number of responsible Contractors to manufacture and sell on re. city.

Am the Successor and Representative Attorney in all the unsettled War Claims originally filed by C. H. BARKLEY, BARKLEY & WATTS, DUNGAN & SMITH, J. ALLEN PORTER, H. H. BURRILL, W. N. HOGAN, R. H. HIGGINS, S. M. BERNARD, and E. J. VAUGHAN, formerly doing business as Union Agents at Louisville, Ky. Against the United States, and request that all communications in reference to any such claims be addressed under the foregoing, and you will be promptly answered. Special care will be given to claims which have heretofore been rejected or suspended by the department, or indefinitely managed by the former attorneys. For many years, therefore, I have been engaged in settling such claims, I have become thoroughly acquainted with the rights of claimants, and experienced in the adjustment of difficult and complicated cases resulting from loss of papers.

MT. STEELING. The principal town of Eastern Kentucky, the county-seat of Montgomery, is on the L. & N. R. R., east of Lexington 64 miles, at Frankfort 61, of Louisville 127. It is 27 miles west of Huntington, Va., where the Big Sandy and Chesapeake and Ohio R. R. connect. No other town in Eastern Kentucky has as much enterprise and general business. It is the distributing point for a very large territory. It is increasing in size and importance very rapidly and is incorporated. There are two flourishing female colleges, a public school, 2 colored schools, a public library, 2 weekly newspapers—the Democrat (Friday), and the Sentinel (Wednesday). The Democrat is one of the largest and best papers in the State. It has a large circulation, and is edited by active, energetic young men. The churches are Baptist, Presbyterian, Christian, Methodist, Episcopal, Catholic, and Episcopal. Besides all the ordinary trades, there is a woolen-mill, a planing-mill, a cloth-mangle factory, a tannery, 2 machine-shops, a flouring-mill, and a distillery. There is a halle stage to Owingsville, a tri-weekly stage to Sharpshurg, Carlisle, and Flemingsburg. There are three banks, with a capital of $100,000, 4 hotels, of which the "Rose House" is the largest and best, with good livery connected, and the "National." A telegraph, express, 2 mails a day each way. Jas. Howard, postmaster.
